Ports are the gateway to our regional and national economies, connecting farmers, manufacturers, retailers and consumers to the world marketplace. Landside and waterside connections to seaports are a critical piece of our national freight transportation system. A projected $43 billion investment gap by 2040 threatens the industry’s ability to deliver prosperity. Now is the time to invest in vital infrastructure to keep America moving.