

Canaveral Port Authority

Video: “Welcome to Port Canaveral” – This is a silent film featuring a pantomime using gestures and colorful video footage to point out to passengers waiting in line to board their cruise ship of the many wonderful things to do in and around the port for the next time they visit. The video shuns audio to avoid competing with cruise line and public safety announcements over the public address system. Judges cited the submission as being imaginative and inspired, with one saying it was “a very creative solution for a challenging setting!”
