

LATIN AMERICA TRADE COALITION

February 7, 2008

To members of the U.S. Congress

The Latin America Trade Coalition — a broad-based group of more than 700 U.S. companies, business and agricultural organizations, and chambers of commerce — urges Congress to approve the U.S.-Colombia Trade Promotion Agreement (CTPA) this year. Doing so will advance both the economic and foreign policy interests of the United States, providing immediate benefit to U.S. workers, farmers, consumers, and companies. It will also extend a helping hand to our friends and allies in Colombia, who in recent years have made remarkable and sustained progress in protecting human rights, strengthening democracy, and sparking economic opportunity.

Colombia is the second largest Spanish-speaking country in the world, with dynamic economic growth averaging 5% over the past five years. Trade with the United States has nearly doubled in this period, approaching $18 billion in 2007. Nearly 8,000 U.S. companies export their products to Colombia, and over 80% of these are small and medium-sized companies that will benefit directly from CTPA.

Building on these strong ties, CTPA will transform the current U.S.-Colombia trade relationship into a fairer, mutually beneficial partnership. In 1991, Congress approved the Andean Trade Preference Act (ATPA), which has been renewed by bipartisan majorities several times in recent years. ATPA allows 90% of all imports from Colombia to enter the U.S. market duty free. By contrast, Colombia's average duty on imports from the U.S. is 11% for manufactured goods and more than 50% for key agricultural exports such as corn and wheat. In short, Colombians enjoy nearly free access to our market while our access to theirs remains limited.

CTPA will remedy the unfairness of today's U.S.-Colombia trade relationship. Four-fifths of U.S. consumer and industrial products and most key U.S. farm exports will enter Colombia duty-free immediately upon entry into force. In addition, the agreement will open services markets, safeguard investments, and secure the intellectual property of U.S. inventors, researchers, and creative artists.

The geostrategic importance of the agreement is also profound. CTPA will help Colombians lock in the gains of the past decade, which has seen violence fall to its lowest level in a generation. More than 40,000 fighters have been demobilized as insurgent groups lost legitimacy. Unemployment has fallen to single digits for the first time in 15 years, and the number of Colombians enrolling in school and the health care system has risen sharply. These achievements are a triumph of brave and principled Colombians as well as bipartisan U.S. foreign policy, which lent support through Plan Colombia and ATPA. CTPA will build on this solid foundation.

Clearly, Congress can lend a helping hand to workers and farmers in both the United States and Colombia by approving this landmark agreement. Doing so will send a clear signal of support for democracy and development, transparency in business and government, and internationally recognized worker rights. To reject the agreement would be to abandon America's closest ally in Latin America; it would undermine Colombia's recent economic progress while doing nothing to further reduce violence or protect human rights. For these reasons, we urge you to vote in favor of the U.S.-Colombia Trade Promotion Agreement.
