CRUISE SHIP PROVISIONING

NYC Supplier Directory

WELCOME

Dear Cruise Lines,

We are pleased to present the inaugural New York City Cruise Ship Food and Beverage Suppliers Directory. This will be the first of many editions, highlighting the range and depth of food and beverage suppliers New York City has to offer.

At your fingertips you will find the rich variety of local food and beverage suppliers from gourmet chocolate in Manhattan to Brooklyn-based smoked fish. We encourage you to look to New York City, the greatest food city in the country, and buy locally. New York City has welcomed passenger ships to our shores for over a century and we proudly continue to welcome visitors here.

This directory includes a New York port map, the history of NYCruise and descriptions of New York-based food and beverage suppliers.

We hope that you will find this a useful tool in managing the food provisioning for your cruise ships.

Sincerely,

Welcome

New York City's world-class cruise ship ports in both Manhattan and Brooklyn offer ideal facilities for cruise arrivals or departures. New York Cruise brings the most spectacular—often the fastest, biggest, and most luxurious—passenger ships to the West Side of Manhattan and to the newly opened terminal in Red Hook, Brooklyn from European origins or distant ports in the Americas.

Most major cruise lines, including Norwegian Cruise Lines, Carnival Cruise Lines, Princess Cruises, Cunard, Holland America and the finest luxury lines offer service from the New York Cruise Terminal. The Terminal also serves as a home port to some of the most prestigious cruise lines in the world, with itineraries to Bermuda, Canada, New England, Europe and the Caribbean. Choosing to cruise with New York Cruise also means you can extend your vacation by enjoying pre- or post-cruise stays in New York—the most exciting city in the world!

News & Events

Three Queens Royal Rendezvous

The only New York call of Cunard's Three Queens - Queen Elizabeth 2 (QE2), Queen Mary 2, and the new Queen Victoria - took place on Sunday, January 13th. The once-in-a-lifetime event included spectacular views of the Royal Rendezvous sail away with a fireworks display overlooking the majestic Statue of Liberty. The Queen Elizabeth 2, Cunard's longest-serving ship, left Manhattan for its 26th and final voyage. This is the first time in Cunard's 168-year history that three "Queens" have been in service at the same time, with QE2 retiring in November 2008; it was the only time they will operate together.

NYCruise Generates over $1 Billion

Cruise Lines International Association's (CLIA) newly released Economic Impact Study revealed that the New York City cruise industry generated over $1 billion dollars in 2006 and was responsible for over 13,420 local jobs. More than one million passengers came through the City's cruise facilities this
