

The Port of Long Beach

Special Event: “Green Port Fest” – The port’s highly successful “Green Port Fest 2007” gave Long Beach-area residents a close-up and hands-on view of the port operations from top to bottom. Held each October since adoption of its groundbreaking Green Port Policy in 2005, the event has become a major part of the port’s community outreach effort, showcasing its promise to protect the environment. According to the port, Green Port Fest 2007 also gave the public “a close look at port operations, security measures, port railroad activity, community engagement efforts and port-related careers.”
