Holiday Video Greeting Card

SUMMARY STATEMENT

The Holiday Video Greeting card was a December 2015 goodwill-building digital message from the staff of the Canaveral Port Authority to its community.
1. COMMUNICATIONS CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Port Canaveral is going through a period of growth and transformation, exploring what type of seaport it could — and should — become in the future. Already a leading cruise port, can this Port transform into a larger player in cargo, help Central Florida become a significant logistics hub, develop further its recreation and destination offerings and still maintain or even improve its position in the cruise industry?

Many of the projects the Port has been studying, planning or implementing have been “firsts” — Canaveral’s first container terminal, first on-dock rail, first barge-rail service, the county’s first high-bay Class A rail-side warehouse space, a unique on-Port destination retail village and more. “Firsts” create questions, especially within the local residential and business community. Why are you doing this? Why now? Why here? How are you going to accomplish these goals? How are you going to pay for it? How does any of this affect me as a business owner, homeowner, job seeker, recreational Port user, etc.?

During the past year, these questions have been asked of the Port Authority with increasing frequency and volume — in the community, public meetings and the media. Sentiments grew in some segments of the community that the Port Authority was “out for itself” and its own “profits,” ignoring the wishes and well-being of its constituents.

Port staff began to feel the negative pressure of accusations directed at the leadership’s vision and actions. Whereas it had always been a matter of pride to work at the Port, now an “us against them” sentiment from the community was creating growing concerns at all levels of staff. Some workers, with limited information about the ongoing problems, were becoming nervous about job security.

In spite of serious budget cuts, the Communications staff decided to send some form of holiday message out to the community, as a reminder that the people of the Port also are part of the community and an opportunity to rebuild pride and morale among Port employees.
2. COMPLEMENTING THE PORT’S MISSION

Port Canaveral was built to serve its community as an economic and recreational resource. To serve well, the Port must be responsive to the needs of its community and the community must be supportive of the Port and its goals.

The relationship between the Port and its community is a close, interrelated and vital one, which — like most relationships — requires ongoing conversation to maintain in healthy condition.

While many of the Port’s communications to its community build a base of shared information, it also is necessary to build goodwill.

3. PLANNING AND PROGRAMMING COMPONENTS

— Overall goals/Desired results:
At little or no cost, produce a positive message to the community that also would help re-instill pride among the Port staff.

— Objectives:
To accomplish these goals, the holiday video greeting card strove to:

- Put a face on the Port and build a connection between people in the community and people at the Port
- Foster a sense of community and engagement
- Give the community a behind-the-scenes look at the Port
- Include as many Port staff as possible
- Create a very warm, positive, personal mood

— Target Audiences:
The target audiences were the local residential community and the Port’s tenants and other business partners.
4. ACTIONS AND OUTPUTS

– Strategies:

To optimize the message, we:

▪ Videoed holiday messages from Port Authority Commissioners, leadership and general staff

▪ Included a wide variety of the people who work at the Port, interspersing executives with office workers, line handlers, maintenance people, etc.

▪ Filmed at all the Port facilities to show the Port staff in their natural work environments — at desks, trucks, on the docks, in the break room, etc.

▪ Included a variety of greetings such as smiles, waves and casual statements; also included greetings in multiple languages spoken by staff members

▪ Used humor — staff wearing funny hats and outfits, "goofing around" with each other in a natural way, built humor up at the end and finished with soundtrack of authentic laughter

▪ Eliminated printing costs by producing a digital-only message

– Implementation:

The card was produced by two members of the Port’s communications staff and one consultant who donated time and resources. The project took two days to film and two days to edit. The total production time was less than a week and no expenses were incurred beyond staff time.

The holiday card was posted on the Port website and emailed through Constant Contact to 2538 recipients. It also was shared through social media links on Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn and was posted on the Port’s YouTube channel.
5. OUTCOMES

– Evaluation:
More than 39 percent (909) of the Constant Contact recipients opened the emails, with a very high 63 percent click-through rate. On YouTube, the card received 778 views. The Facebook post with a link to the YouTube posting of the card reached 2,963 people, with 53 likes, comments and shares. The LinkedIn post received 1,076 impressions.

– Influence on attitudes and actions:
The card received a great deal of very positive attention from both the community and Port staff and Commissioners. Morale was significantly boosted among the staff that participated and/or viewed the card. People reported that they were “proud” to be involved and thought the card was a great way to connect to the community.

Other comments:

“Creative idea”

“Great way to promote the Port”

“Really enjoyed this special holiday greeting”
