

Bruce E. Cashon

Based in New Jersey at Ceres Terminals Incorporated's corporate headquarters, Bruce Cashon is a forty year veteran of the maritime and marine cargo handling industries. He has extensive experience in surface transportation, port management and international business development. As Senior Vice President and Chief Commercial Officer for the Ceres Group, Mr. Cashon has responsibility for the company's corporate marketing, sales, business development, pricing and strategic planning. His responsibilities include the development of commercial interests throughout the Americas, Europe and Asia.

Mr. Cashon started his maritime career with Harrington & Company in 1971 in stevedoring and terminal operations at the Port of Miami. During his career, he has held senior management positions with the Port of Miami, the Jacksonville Port Authority and the Port of Baltimore. In 1993 Mr. Cashon joined International Terminal Operating Co. Inc. (ITO) as Vice President of Marketing and remained with the company after its acquisition by P&O Ports. He was later promoted to Senior Vice President, Marketing of North America with P&O Ports North America. In December 2003, Mr. Cashon joined the management team of Ceres Terminals incorporated as Vice President Marketing and Business Development. He was appointed to his current position as Senior Vice President/CCO in February 2005.

Mr. Cashon is a member of numerous maritime organizations and serves on the Board of New Orleans Terminal LLC, (Louisiana); and Houston Terminal LLC, (Texas). Mr. Cashon has a BA in International Relations from The University of Florida, USA.